mental health rehabilitation programme. This study explored community-based mental health rehabilitation programmes in New South Wales and Victoria in Australia. Using a set of distinct measures of service use, recovery and functioning, it was possible to distinguish between those clients who were most at need of rehabilitation and showed greatest increase in their recovery and functioning. These clients appeared to be those from traditional treatment groups with early serious mental illness, (as indexed by multi-problem or dual diagnosis) who were in need of more intensive rehabilitation services. However, there were also substantial numbers of clients who had relatively minor problems but did not appear to be meeting active needs, and these clients were often in traditional rehabilitation settings. A dual-diagnosis impairment scale was developed and a simple scoring procedure used to assess the extent to which the scale corresponded to the client's level of need. This could be used to guide the allocation of client resources, and assist in the development of other research approaches that could be more sensitive than the conventional client intake process in identifying clients in need of more intensive service.Looking for a Natural and Effective Treatment for Skin Infections A lot of women get skin infections from using tampons or contraceptive patches and some may also suffer from other issues like thrush or cystitis that can be treated through natural and home remedies. A number of people have encountered these infections and do not know how to treat it and heal it. However, there are simple natural cures and home remedies that can be used to treat skin infections, thrush and other infections. For instance, if you have a fungal infection, you need to wash the area with milk. If you are worried about using a disinfectant to clean the area, you can use milk instead. This is because milk, in addition to being nutritious, also contains antibacterial properties. If you are a diabetic and have burning or itching in your feet, you can use Epsom salt to treat it. Epsom salt is a relatively cheap 3da54e8ca3
