Each hero will have a primary attribute that will be used to classify the many types of heroes available in HeroFi. Each of them has several secondary attributes that can be used to classify the types of heroes that can be built from them. First we need to define the hero's secondary attributes. To do this, we will first define the base attributes we want to use and then look at our secondary attributes. First, we will define the base attributes. We need a set of three attributes for each of our main hero attributes.
